

Customer Shopping Behavior — Business problems

1. Overall Business Performance

1. What are the total number of transactions, total revenue, average purchase value, and average customer rating?
2. Which product categories generate the highest total revenue?
3. Which five individual products contribute the most revenue to the business?
4. Which gender segment generates more total revenue and has a higher average purchase value?
5. Which age group generates the highest total revenue?

2. Customer & Product Behavior problem

6. Which season generates the highest total revenue?
7. Do subscribed customers generate more revenue and have a higher average purchase value than non-subscribed customers?
8. Does applying a discount increase or decrease the average purchase value?
9. How do customers who use promo codes compare with customers who do not use promo codes in terms of revenue and average purchase value?
10. Which payment method generates the highest revenue and average order value?
11. Which shipping option generates the highest revenue and the greatest number of orders?
12. Which purchase-frequency segment contributes the most revenue?
13. Which clothing size generates the highest total revenue?

3. Geographic & Customer Satisfaction Insights

14. Which are the top 10 locations generating the highest total revenue?
15. Which locations have the highest average purchase value?
16. Which product categories receive the highest average customer ratings?

4. Customer Loyalty & Value

17. How does a customer's previous purchase history relate to their current spending behavior?
18. Which 10 customers make the highest-value purchases?
19. Which category and gender combinations generate the highest total revenue?
20. Which combinations of subscription status and purchase frequency represent the strongest customer segments?

5.important Business Insights

21. Is there a significant revenue difference between customers who receive discounts and those who do not?
22. Which combination of subscription status and discount usage produces the highest average purchase value and revenue?
23. What is the best-performing product within each product category based on revenue?
24. Which products generate high revenue but receive relatively low customer ratings?
25. Which product category generates the highest average revenue per transaction/customer?
26. How does spending differ between new customers, low-repeat customers, regular customers, and highly loyal customers?
27. Which product category performs best in each season?
28. Which payment method has the highest average order value?
29. Which customers have both high previous-purchase activity and high current spending, making them potential VIP customers?
30. What percentage of total business revenue is contributed by each product category?